Over the past 10 years, the number of people in the United States who are in the workforce has increased by 10 million. This increase has been driven by a number of factors, including the aging of the population, the increase in the number of women in the workforce, and the increase in the number of people who are working part-time or on a temporary basis. The increase in the number of people in the workforce has also led to a decrease in the number of people who are unemployed. The unemployment rate has decreased from 6.5% in 1992 to 5.5% in 2002. This decrease has been driven by a number of factors, including the increase in the number of people who are working part-time or on a temporary basis, and the increase in the number of people who are working in the service sector.
